#40	Responsive CSS — 768px and 480px breakpoints — all zones	Complete

4. KEY DECISIONS THIS SESSION

Thumbnail generation:

- Icon row replaced by artifact thumbnail row — stronger evaluator signal
- PyMuPDF (fitz) used to generate thumbnails — Poppler/pdf2image environment issues on user hardware
- generate_thumbnails.py deleted after use — not committed to repo
- Five PNGs at 1275x1650px — consistent set — white background on black canvas intentional

Zone 3 copy — locked:

- Evaluator voice — not academic definitions — what was chosen and why
- 'ADHD' replaced with 'focus challenges' throughout
- No what/why labels — two clean paragraphs per tile — Option 2

Responsive CSS decisions:

- Two-query structure: max-width 768px (structural) + max-width 480px (mobile overrides)
- Sketch images hidden at both 768px and 480px
- Zone 3 tiles: column-reverse at 768px — copy above image
- Zone 4 hidden entirely at 480px — iframe not viable at mobile
- Zone 5 footer: single vertical column at 480px

PRD amendment flagged:

- FR-05 specified thumbnails above fold — placed in Zone 2 below fold — decision documented in NOTES.md

PDF table cell pattern — locked for all future sessions:

- All table cells must be wrapped in Paragraph objects — never plain strings
- Use a P() helper function at table build time — header row uses bold white style, body rows use normal style
- VALIGN set to TOP for all cells — required when cells wrap to multiple lines

5. LOCKED COPY — ZONE 3 ARTIFACT TILES

Problem Statement

- The problem isn't a missing portfolio — it's a broken execution loop. A professional with strong product vision and focus challenges has no system that matches their cognitive wiring, so every project stalls before it ships. PMD is the proposed solution.
- Grounding the entire system in a single, honest problem statement was non-negotiable. If the problem isn't real and specific, nothing that follows has a reason to exist. This one does.

Persona — The Visionary Staller

- The primary user isn't a generic "aspiring PM." They're someone who can map a full product in seconds and then freeze at a blank doc. The persona names the loop — ignition, overwhelm, stall — and defines exactly what breaks it.
- A persona that doesn't make you uncomfortable isn't specific enough. This one is specific enough.

Persona — The Hiring Evaluator

- The secondary user has thirty seconds and a stack of portfolios. The persona maps their scan pattern second by second and names the six questions they're silently asking. This portfolio is built to answer all six.
- Most candidates build for themselves. This persona exists to ensure every design decision on this site serves the person who decides whether it's worth a conversation.

Now / Next / Later Roadmap

- Three horizons, deliberately sequenced. Now is a live URL and a real repository. Next is the marketing and proof layers that make it credible. Later is the system proving it scales beyond a single project.
- A roadmap that starts with "full-stack PM identity" before the site exists is a fantasy. This one starts with deployed and works outward. Sequence is the decision.

Product Requirements Document

- Eight functional requirements, five technical decisions, one non-negotiable accessibility standard. Includes a documented tradeoff — professional tooling deferred to P1 in service of shipping P0 under constraint.
- The tradeoff section is the most important part. Any PM can list requirements. Documenting what you chose not to build, and why, is where product thinking becomes visible.

7. NOTES.MD — CURRENT STATE

All items below are open unless marked complete. Full file lives in repo root.

Responsive pass:

- ☒ All zones — tested at 375px and 768px — COMPLETE
- ☐ All zones — test at 1280px and 1440px — spot check recommended

Deferred decisions:

- ☐ Zone 2 redundancy — thumbnail row previews Zone 3 — revisit at P1
- ☐ PRD FR-05 amendment — thumbnail row placed in Zone 2 below fold — document in next PRD version
- ☐ Scroll chevron between zones — revisit once Zone 3 built — assess affordance need
- ☐ Zone 4 hidden at 480px — consider mobile-friendly alternative to iframe at P1
- ☐ Footer email — replace hello@thepmdev.com placeholder before sharing with evaluators
- ☐ Wireframe v4.1 PDF — generate and add to docs/current/
- ☐ About page — content and design TBD
- ☐ GA4 measurement ID — replace placeholder at deploy config
- ☐ TOS / Privacy — footer placeholders — legal copy deferred

P1 — Site architecture decisions:

- ☐ Homepage purpose — project showcase vs. personal brand landing page
- ☐ Nav structure — Projects with subpages vs. expanded category-level nav

- [] About page — reconsider necessity if homepage becomes brand-focused
- [] Projects nav — evaluate category structure with JavaScript expansion
- [] Index.html long-term role — decision required before P1 content build
